

PPDM Association Speaker Agreement

The PPDM Association's normal practice is to publish presentation material on the PPDM web site. The Association publishes presentations in protected .pdf format. Your personal/corporate authorization is required for the PPDM Association to publish your presentation material at a PPDM conference, seminar or other event.

GUIDELINES

PPDM Conferences and Seminars are designed to inform and educate the PPDM Association community. An objective, technical presentation that meets the educational needs of the audience will do the best job of enhancing the credibility of the speaker, the speaker's employer, and the PPDM Association.

Speakers may include their company name or logo on visual and handout materials, and the speaker's affiliation will be announced in written event materials. Speakers should avoid any appearance of commercialism in their session.

As a general guideline, speakers from companies that sell products and services should focus on the business problem that the product or service solves. A problem oriented paper (commonly presented as a use case) provides the audience with a clear picture about how their own business problems might be addressed.

Speakers from firms selling industry products and services are expected not to focus on their company's products or capabilities during the presentation as there are sponsorship levels available that would allow for promotional purposes.

Answers to questions raised during the session relating to products or services provided by the speaker's company should be deferred to private conversations between the speaker and an attendee.

Please hand in your presentations at the deadline that's been requested. We will do our best to provide the last version of presentations, however; there are no guarantees that the presentations that were received after the deadline will be available at presentation time! Submitted bios and abstracts may be edited or shortened for formatting or grammatical purposes/consistencies
